BARRY'S BLOG

I think everybody has probably had enough emails & letters from Glen over the year and thought it must be my turn to send you all an update.

2021 another year of disruptions & interruptions and there still could be a couple curve balls thrown at us before the year's out. Behind the scenes our challenges have been shipping, shipping costs, product supply, COVID restrictions & ever changing prices. At the time of writing this all of these have had major changes again. I have been proud in the manner that we have been able to look after our customers who have supported D&M Rural in 2021. Our policy for 2022 won't change. We have already been doing the pre-planning for next season and hope we have everything covered off to the best of our knowledge. In these ever-changing times, I would advise that if you are planning a project please give us the heads up early, as we have seen with steel / poly pipe, price increases can happen rapidly.

This year we had Darcy & Clare join us in Agronomy & David in Merchandise. All have fitted in really well & hopefully by now you have meet them in store or the paddock. With Harvest upon us & the seasonal challenges which have been thrown at us this year, I hope everyone has a safe harvest & look forward to yield stories once it's in the bin. On behalf of all the staff at D&M Rural I wish everyone a safe and Merry Christmas & new year period with family & friend's.

Thanks Barry

Merry Christmas
from D&M Rural
